CHOOSE LIFE – Pregnancy Hot Line (909) 398-4838

When the time comes when parents are able to select the genetic traits of their offspring, "I would not oppose selecting for intelligence. We could assume that people of higher intelligence would have good consequences for society." This statement from Peter Singer, philosopher, author and professor of bioethics at Princeton University, led columnist Jeff Jacoby to question the good consequences produced by Mr. Singer's intelligence through his advocacy of a 28-day period during which newborns could be killed and his conclusion that breeding children for spare parts is "not something really wrong in itself." The Priest: Christ Present Among Us

"The Lord Himself will give you a sign, behold, a Virgin shall be with Child and will bear a Son, and His name will be Emmanuel, for God IS with us." These words of the prophet Isaiah are echoed in Jesus' last testament to His Disciples before Ascending into heaven: "Behold, I am with you always, even until the End of Time!" Both prophecies are fulfilled preeminently in His Real and substantial Presence in the Holy Eucharist.

For the Eucharist is God's Presence among us, His loving, nourishing, healing, comforting, enduring, self-giving Presence among us. "And His Delight was to be among the sons of men!" But the Eucharist is more than Christ's substantial Presence, His Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity under the appearances of bread and wine. For the Eucharistic Sacrifice is also the same sacrifice as the Sacrifice on the Cross. "The Mass makes present the sacrifice of the Cross; it does not add to that sacrifice, nor does it multiply it…[Rather, the Mass] makes Christ's one, definitive redemptive sacrifice always present in time," according to Pope John Paul II in his encyclical Ecclesia de Eucharistia.

Through the Eucharist, then, we are with Christ on Calvary and receive His Grace at its source. But as our Holy Father points out so emphatically, without the Priest, there can be no Eucharist. For the ministry of the Priest is "essential for validly linking the Eucharistic Consecration to the Sacrifice of the Cross, and to the Last Supper. The assembly gathered together for the celebration of the Eucharist, if it is to be a truly Eucharistic assembly, absolutely requires the presence of an ordained Priest as its president."

The Holy Father comments that though the power of consecration is reserved to bishops and priests, rather than belittling the role of the laity, within the context of the Mystical Body this power should be seen as a gift that "resounds to the benefit of all." We see, then, the Eucharist and the priesthood are essentially linked. Our Holy Father goes so far as to say that the Holy Eucharist "is the principle and central raison d'etre of the sacrament of priesthood, which effectively came into being at the moment of the institution of the Eucharist."

In order to have Christ among us, then, we need the Priest. For through him and him alone, God comes to be with us in the Holy Eucharist. Christ remains among us, however, in more ways than in His substantial presence in the Eucharist. As the Second Vatican Council teaches following the long tradition of the Church, Christ is also really Present among us "in the Person of His Minister." The priest makes Christ present because he acts in persona Christi at every liturgical celebration. In persona Christi, as Pope John Paul II teaches, "means more than offering 'in the name of' or 'in the place of ' Christ. In persona means in specific sacramental identification with the Eternal High Priest Who is the author and principal subject of this sacrifice of His, a sacrifice in which, in truth, nobody can take His place." When, therefore, the Priest says, "This is My body…This is My blood," it is Christ Himself who speaks and offers Himself to the Father.

When the Priest absolves us from our sins, he does not say "Christ absolves you from your sins." Rather, he says, "Ego te absolvo…I absolve you," that is, Christ acting in me absolves you from your sins. On the Altar, in the Confessional, praying the Divine Office; Christ is there, really present, in the Person of His Minister. But this presence extends beyond the celebration of the Sacraments: "The Eucharist extends its efficacy to all the Minister's Actions, since the Priestly function does not only include Sanctification, but also Shepherding and Teaching" says Cardinal Schotte.

The words of the homily and the counsels allow himself to be led by the Spirit, are in the special way efficacious Words of Christ for those who receive them. This efficacy derives not only from his Priestly Ordination, but also from the Eucharist, that is to say, from his Union with Christ. For as the Second Vatican Council teaches, "The pastoral love [of the Priest] flows mainly from the Eucharist Sacrifice, which is therefore the center and root of the whole Priestly life."

We should be open, therefore, to receive these words of the Priest with particular attention. For through the Priest, Jesus is speaking to our hearts. As Our Lord says in the Gospel, "He who receives anyone whom I send, receives Me; and he who receives Me, receives Him Who sent Me.
